1. Our students treat classmates and school mates with respect.
2. Our students respect school property and other people's personal property.
3. Our students behave respectfully toward their teachers and other school staff.
4. Our students care about and help each other, even if they are not friends.
5. Our students refrain from put-downs and picking on others or excluding them if they are "different."
6. The older students in our school are kind and helpful to the younger students.
7. When our students do something hurtful, they apologize and try to make up for it.
8. Our students take their studies seriously: they pay attention in class and do their assignments carefully.
9. Our students show good sportsmanship on the playground and in intramural sports.
10. Our students solve conflicts without fighting, insults, or threats. When they see another student being mean, they try to stop it.

Something about this exercise that:

- surprised me
- pleased me
- disappointed me
